Marie Mitchell, with the help of William Henry, took advantage of a beautiful cool morning this week to get out and manure the medians in Waveland. Her beautification effort has gathered some support from area nurseries such as Hilda's, which provided crepe myrtles at a healthy discount, Mitchell said. K-Mart donated plants and mulch and the Waveland Police Department has agreed to assist with manpower. "I would like to see more volunteers with the county or anyone living in Waveland to help," Mitchell said. To volunteer, contact her at P.O. Box 287, Waveland. Also helping her to spruce up were Jules Mollere and Eddie White with the city's recreation department.

Domestic problem leads to an assault on sheriff's deputy

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

A domestic problem led to a hostage situation in Dedeaux Wednesday afternoon and ended with a local man being charged with two counts of aggravated assault.

Jerry Beeson, 31, 23439 Standard Cemetery Rd., Pass Christian, is being held in the Hancock County Justice Facility with bond set at $100,000.

He is charged with two counts of aggravated assault. One count is for the alleged assault of his wife and the other is for the alleged assault of a deputy.

Hancock County Detective Glen Strong said that Beeson and his wife Regina had separated approximately a week before this incident occurred. Beeson allegedly threatened to kill his wife at their home, but she talked him into letting her leave the home and called the sheriff's department from her cellular phone, Strong said.

She informed the sheriff's department, while on the phone, that she would meet them at Dedeaux Community Store, Strong said.

When Regina reached the store Jerry Beeson was not far behind. Strong said that when he saw the deputy walk in, he became agitated and knocked his wife, the deputy and the clerk to the ground, Strong said.

He then held Regina at gunpoint threatening to kill her and the deputy.

"He finally just gave up and surrendered himself," Strong added.

Tisdale explains survey

Superintendent responds to students' questions

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

Bay High School students will not have to go to school before the regularly scheduled time, or after school to attend physics and biology classes.

In response to a letter received by the Echo, Bay-Waveland Superintendent Paul Tisdale explained the misunderstanding between students and the administration.

"We had too many students wanting to take the classes and not enough teachers certified in the classes. We sent out a survey to the students, asking if they would be willing to do this so that more students could take it and we would not have to

Tone of meeting alarms chamber

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce says vehement opposition to some recent development proposals in Bay St. Louis has gone too far—possibly damaging the community's image.

"The approach taken by some to oppose these developments has been somewhat embarrassing for the community, resulting in personal attacks on reputable individuals and a growing divisiveness in our community that is counter-productive. Some feel that we are gaining a reputation as a community opposed to growth and development," said Chamber president Dave Treutel Jr.

Treutel made the statement in a letter to Les Fillingame, chairman of the city Planning and Zoning Commission, offering the chamber's help in developing a comprehensive plan for the city. With the economy on the upswing, and demands on the infrastructure growing, in some areas, such as zoning, "we simply are not fully prepared to meet the various demands being presented," Treutel said.

Treutel said Chamber members would be glad to help gather information from other comparable communities to help in the planning process.

The letter went out the same day the commission got another dose of public wrath—an audience full of opponents and proponents to a bed and breakfast proposed for 1360 North Beach Boulevard. The commission's meeting had been held at the Bay High Auditorium, as officials anticipated an over-capacity crowd would turn out at City Hall Annex.

The Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association rallied on behalf of the bed and breakfast proposal, running an "open letter" advertisement in support and urging its approval during the meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce's board didn't endorse or oppose the bed and breakfast specifically—Treutel said Thursday the Chamber doesn't feel it's appropriate to advise the city on specific zoning matters.

Still, in its letter to Filling-

B & B splits P & Z commission

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis zoning officials Wednesday tossed a fiery issue into the lap of City Council, when a second try at resolving the matter failed.

Planning and Zoning Commission members deadlocked in a three-to-three vote on whether to allow a bed and breakfast operation at 1360 North Beach Boulevard. The request by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Woodruff goes to City Council as a split recommendation by the commission.

"The whole issue has gotten very, very bogged down in definitions," said commission chairman Les Fillingame, who cited deeply-rooted convictions among the vocal opponents and proponents. No one appeared to budge as the debate raged into the night.

Wednesday's meeting was somewhat shorter than a three-hour session the commission held in June on the matter, but it was jammed packed with emotional arguments and debate over legalities of city zoning. There were contentions the operation amounts to a legal "home occupation," and others that it would be a "tourist home" disallowed in residential zones.

The Woodruffs sat on the front row of Bay High Auditorium to hear the debate, but didn't take the microphone. After the session, Gene Woodruff said the exercise was "a waste of time."

He and his wife moved into the property at issue, known as Cedar Haven, last weekend and had hoped to begin using two or three of its five bedrooms as bed and breakfast lodging.

To do so, they needed a "special exception" to the zoning restrictions of the single family residential zoning that the property is assigned.

Proponents argued that with the relatively remote location of the property, and the small scale of the operation, the business venture would be virtually invisible. Cedar Haven sits on a 2.5-acre tract, some 150 feet from North Beach Boulevard.

Some argued that the few guests' traffic would be less than that of a family with teengers.

Cedar Haven, the center of controversy

Proponents included Jim Henrie, representing the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association, and Judy Lipscomb, owner of the Bay Towne Inn bed and breakfast at 208 North Beach Boulevard.

Ironically, Lipscomb herself had been on the agenda seeking permission to transfer ownership of her bed and breakfast operation. Her application was deferred to the commission's August meeting, however, in light of the squall of controversy the Woodruff application has sparked.

Instead, Lipscomb appeared on the Woodruff's side, telling the commission that her establishment has attracted a steady

School board hears report on portable classrooms

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

Administrative assistant Billy Rhodes gave the Bay-Waveland School Board and Superintendent Paul Tisdale a rundown on options for obtaining portable classrooms to alleviate overcrowding in the school system at a meeting Monday, July 25.

He had contacted Gene Taylor's office and Stennis Space Center where he found a source for several used trailers, but they were in need of extensive repair to make them serviceable. After discussion, board members considered the cost to bring them up to standards would be too high. The idea of obtaining them was abandoned.

Rhodes also provided information about new portable classrooms and the accessories and extras such as shelves, cubicles, bathroom facilities and water fountains that would be required or non-essential if the Bay-Waveland school system purchased one or more.

Since the greatest need for more space is at Bay High, board members batted around the idea of moving trailers now located at North Bay Elementary to the high school. The cost for moving them was considered prohibitive, so that alternative was ruled out and the trailers will stay in place.

Smoke testing set for Bay sewer system

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

On Tuesday testing on the Bay St. Louis's sewer system will begin by Compton Engineering.

Compton was recently contracted to check the city's sewer lines for leaks and other related problems.

One phase of the testing will be the use of smoke, a Compton spokesman said.

The use of smoke is primarily to check if there are leaks in the city's main lines and service lines to residences.

If a resident's sewer system is in good working order, smoke should exit through the vents on the top of their roof during the tests, the spokesman said.

Phase One of the project will begin Tuesday on Bay Oaks Drive and will probably take one month.

All of the city's man holes will also be checked during the testing.

Bay St. Louis' sewer system was installed in 1966 with other extensions since added.

During the testing, personnel from Compton will be in the neighborhoods to answer any inquiries.

Bayou boathouse stirs waves in Pass Christian

BY MARY G. SEILEY

A boathouse under construction in Bayou Mallini has some residents of Pass Christian Isles stunned—and stumped.

The structure, in conformance with state permits, extends some 45 feet into the waterway. If property owners opposite it wanted to do the same, they could, say state officials who rule on the size of allowable structures in navigable waters.

The "one-third, one-third, one-third" rule has been in effect since 1973, says Joe Gill, acting director of the new Department of Marine Resources.

Under that rule, property owners opposite each other may build a structure one third the width of a waterway, each, as long as one third of the waterway is left open for navigation.

Imagine, says Bernie Schmaltz, such a "Hong Kong" look that could develop along a bayou, if all property owners decided to take full advantage of the rule. "Does that make sense?"

The issue arose last weekend when a contractor's barge swung into place to set in pilings for a boathouse for Martin

My boss is a Jewish carpenter

Louis Farrakhan galvanizes most black males wherever he goes and speaks. His message is very elementary and true, beginning with a strong affirmation of blacks, making them think and feel they are somebody special and worthwhile. "How are you going to respect anyone else if you don't even respect yourselves?" he asks.

This observation is every bit as true as the command to find our own identity and validation before reaching out to anyone else: "Love your neighbor as yourself" (Mk. 12: 31). Thus Jesus affirms how self-love must precede love of others.

Farrakhan follows with a challenge to accept responsibility for rearing children and to respect each other as men. He goes on to hammer the themes of self-reliance and independence, preaching, "Let's do for ourselves!"

All of this is necessary, commendable and, as the minister's huge audiences attest wherever he goes, extremely attractive, altogether mesmerizing to the black community.

The latter is electrified that a teflon-tongued African American stands up to the white community, echoing Rev. Harold Muhammad who tells whites they are the inferior race created by a black scientist named Yakub 6,600 years ago.

Granted, the Nation of Islam has moved away from calling all whites blue-eyed devils. Still, its philosophy berates whites and pariahwhites, such as Jews admixed with Germans, Russians and Poles, just as much as whites degrade blacks.

Farrakhan aide Khalid Abdul Muhammad told students at Kean College in New Jersey that the real culprits in the Holocaust were the Jews themselves, and today they are the main bloodsuckers in the black community.

That charge was a far cry from the "We shall overcome," "We'll work hand-in-hand" halcyon days of the civil rights movement in the dynamic 60s when Jews did not hesitate to suffer, even shed their blood for the cause.

An equal-opportunity bigot, Muhammad spilled just about as much bile on the Pope, David Dinkins and others. Reaction to his diatribe was predictable and swift from all quarters, including some outraged African Americans.

Instead of an outright rejection of everything said by his aide, Farrakhan chided the offender half-heartedly, disagreeing with the manner rather than the meat of his message.

It is clear that Muhammad attempted no finessing or nuancing. Farrakhan, on the other hand, finessed the issue when he told "Time" correspondent Sylvester Monroe: "Am I really anti-Semitic? Do I really want extermination of the Jewish people? Of course, the answer is no."

This sounds very much like the "Hate the sin, love the sinner" routine which is a Christian mode of behavior.

Whatever be the case, Christians firmly believe that God privileged the Jewish people beyond all others by ordaining that Jesus the Messiah be born of their stock.

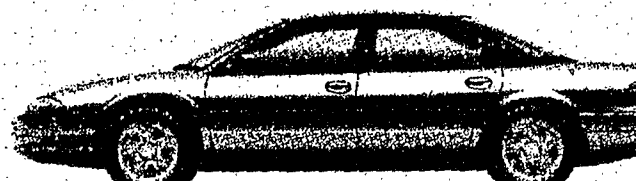

We do not condone everything Jews do, just as we do not condone all actions of any race or ethnic group. Regardless, we hold the Jewish people in the highest esteem because of one Jesus Christ who is the Author of eternal life for all.

The fact is, my boss is a Jewish carpenter. Because of him, no carpenter, no Jew or anyone will ever be the same.

Underground feeder line causes power outage

Coast Electric Power Association reports that the power outage, which occurred Wednesday, July 27 affecting Diamondhead and some areas in north Hancock County, was the result of a fault in an underground feeder line which was probably damaged by an earlier thunderstorm.

Robert Occhi, Coast Electric general manager, announced that crews, rather than repairing the damaged line, would replace it completely.

He added that the recent bad weather, heavy rains and associated lightning storms, have caused other outages in recent weeks.

"The outages that have occurred in the past several weeks have been excessive, and we truly sympathize with our customers. We are doing everything humanly possible to minimize their occurrence," he said.

About 1,000 residents living in and near Diamondhead were affected by the power outage, which interrupted service for one hour 27 minutes. At the same time, some television cable customers of Diamondhead TV Cable experienced service problems even though their electricity remained on.

Occhi also reported that several right-of-way clearing crews have started working in and near the Diamondhead community.

ame, the chamber cited a shortage of various types of accommodations in the city. "Given the ambiance and personality of the City of Bay St. Louis, what better type of low impact development than bed and breakfast establishments to help meet those needs," Treutel said.

He also cited an increasing shortage of housing. Faced with massive opposition to recent proposals, the commission has recently rejected plans for construction of apartment complexes at two locations.

Rejected were Casino Magic plans for a 100-unit complex on Blue Meadow Road, and Iva Mae McDonald's proposed 100-unit complex on a tract behind ABC Rentals, just off Highway 90.

"The existing apartment complexes in the community have had waiting lists for some time. In order to meet the ever increasing need for housing, apartment complexes must be developed," Treutel said.

"We do realize however that there must be guidelines and regulations put in place to control all growth and development and to ensure that the impact on the community is positive. And as important, these comprehensive zoning guidelines should be clear, concise and communicated to the public."

Treutel said the chamber hopes that once the comprehensive plans and ordinances the city is drafting are in place, zoning issues can be addressed "more appropriately, rather than by those who scream the loudest."

ciation, said in his letter that opposition to development and progress "continues to exist among some within our community who are opposed to such growth and change."

He said denial of the bed and breakfast special exemption request would "unquestionably have the effect of sending a negative message to potential investors in our community, thereby impeding further progress of the area."

The commission ended its deliberations on that issue in a tie vote. It goes to City Council for action, as a split recommendation by the commission.

stream of upper class clientele from across the country and Europe. In two years, she said, "not one towel has been stolen, not one thing has been taken from my home."

She's had no complaints from her neighbors, she said, and no visits from police, no bad checks and no bad credit cards offered by guests.

When the guests leave, she said, "99 percent say this is a wonderful town, we'll be back ... They talk about the charm of the city," where they have visited shops and restaurants. "These are great people ... It's been a wonderful experience for me, knowing that there are that many good people out there."

The Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association's board urged approval of the Woodrick's establishment. Spokesman Jim Henrie said bed and breakfasts strengthen a community economically, and help make a town a tourist destination.

He also cited Lipscomb's restoration of 208 North Beach as an example of how such establishments have been beneficial to communities, salvaging large old homes that no longer are appropriate for single family living.

There may be "some public outcry when a few neighbors have a misunderstanding of what exactly a bed and breakfast is and does." But, he added, "in a great majority of cases ... these quiet, small businesses are embraced and welcomed by their neighbors."

Most of the Woodrick's new neighbors were far from the embracing stage, however.

Burton Kemp said the proposal amounts to a "tourist home" in the city's zoning code, and would be allowed only in a commercial zone. He argued that the operation most likely would cause property values to fall in the area, and cited a previous statement by the Woodricks that the new inn would "cater to gaming executives."

Opponent Robert Breeden said the Woodrick's proposal was clearly a commercial operation. "Once you permit this thing to open up, you destroy the integrity of our zoning laws," said Breeden.

As the debate rolled on, it at times took twists and turns from the zoning issue at hand.

"What you're looking at here is a power grab," said Jim Maness concerning the opposition. He cited a Times-Picayune article that quoted Dorothy McLemore, a member of the Bay St. Louis Community Association, as being a gaming opponent. He said her group was "bound and determined" to stop growth related to casinos.

McLemore, obviously upset by Maness' remarks, noted that her association hasn't taken a position on the Woodricks' application. Saying she had been misquoted by the New Orleans newspaper, McLemore added: "Our association is not against gambling. Our organization is against inappropriate development."

And that's McLemore's view of the Woodrick's application. Uncontrolled spread of bread and breakfast establishments in New Orleans, she said, has helped transform it into a "Disney World ... an impossible place to live."

Barry Pincus, who lives in the Woodrick's neighborhood and likes the bed and breakfast plan, said opponents erroneously had spread word that the establishment would draw "high rollers, drugs and prostitution" to North Beach Boulevard.

"If you're against the bed and breakfast, fine ... but we have to shake hands afterwards. Our homes and neighborhood are more important than any hate anybody can bring in" the debate, he said.

Commissioner Tom Chapman made a motion to recommend City Council deny the Woodrick's application. Voting with him were commissioners David Reynolds and Kevin Fitzpatrick.

Fillingame, Linda Beauregard and David Bassett voted against Chapman's motion.

Bassett then made a motion that the commission recommend approval of the application. That motion died for lack of a second, however.

Mahoney of Poindexter Drive. As neighbors watched in awe, the pilings marched some 45 feet into the bayou.

Mahoney says he's building the boathouse for his son's 38-foot craft, and the logistics of existing structures along the waterway make it impossible to build the new boathouse parallel to the shoreline.

The bayou, he said, is some 150 feet wide at the boathouse site. If his opposite neighbor wanted to build 45 feet out into the bayou, there'd still be some 60 feet left for navigation, he said.

Mahoney said the boathouse will feature a pitched rooftop, but won't have siding.

Saying he's owned his property for 22 years, Mahoney said it's not his intention to do anything to spoil the vista or create problems for any of his neighbors. "We love the area ... The boathouse will be built exactly to specifications in the permits. There will be no deviations whatsoever."

Gill said although the department abides by its policy on allowing construction a third of the way into a waterway, it also strives to keep structures uniform in any one area. So, for example, if most docks along one stretch extend 10 feet into the water, permits for neighboring docks should be about the same dimensions.

Some residents of the bayou were at a loss to explain why they'd been denied permits for docks and boathouses extending further than six to eight feet into the bayou. Gill said there are many factors that go into deciding an application's appropriateness, including the width and depth of the water at any given location, and the impact the construction would have on vegetation near the shoreline.

Tisdale recommended that the board look into purchasing a double-wide trailer, 28 feet by 54 feet, to locate at the high school. The school system will advertise for bids, including delivery and set up.

Rhodes reported on the status of projects underway to get the schools into shape for the coming year. "Some will be completed before school starts," he told the board.

He said the installation of bathroom partitions is under way and will be completed soon. The replacement of ceiling tiles at the high school is finished and the refurbishment of lockers is almost complete.

Bleachers at the stadium should be in place soon, Rhodes said. New desks have arrived and lights in the high school

"I hate anything that's going to ruin the pristine nature of the area, but if they're in conformity with the rules and regulations, I guess we'll have to go with it," said Roy Stoddard, who owns a home on Bayou Mallini. "I just hope it all doesn't turn out to look like a marina."

"We're all pretty much in a state of shock," said another neighbor, who asked not to be identified. "If everybody up and down the bayou did this, there'd be no bayou."

gym and on the tennis courts are being fixed, he added.

Other business concerned the announcement of Shelley Koenenn as part-time clerk in the school's business office. She will work with insurance, workmen's compensation to help lighten the load in the business office.

The board also authorized the search for an assistant teacher for the alternative school. The teacher will be on duty in the afternoons.

The board perused material going into student handbooks that are being prepared and adopted more stringent rules against weapons of all kinds in the classrooms. Discipline methods were discussed, as well as the number of absences that may be allowed.

cut a class. We did not receive enough favorable response, so we cut one of the classes," Tisdale said.

The class will not be cut out entirely. One less school period a day of the class will be taught because it is a state requirement that the teachers have one planning period per day.

Tisdale said what will happen is that seniors will receive the first slots in the available classes. From there, if there is still too many students, the ones with the highest grades will receive the class.

The annual Fall Cleanup for Hancock County is scheduled for Saturday, September 17.

This cleanup will tie in with beach cleanups all over the world.

As many of you know, Hancock County held its first beach cleanup before many others even thought about one.

Preparations are now underway and a meeting of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee is set for 2 p.m. Thursday at the Human Services Complex's meeting room.

More members are needed for the county and cities beautification efforts, only working together can we accomplish our major goal of "Litter Free, and Proud to Be."

The meeting is open to the public and all concerned citizens are invited and urged to attend.

Darlene Underwood is chairman and Betsy Ashman, vice-chairman for the September 17 cleanup.

Persons interested in further information can call the chamber at 467-9048.

We will be giving you further information on the September cleanup as the day nears.

We are now hoping that Highway 603's four-laning will now be completed by late fall and that we won't have to wait until next spring.

The project was originally scheduled to have been completed this month. This highway extension started in the talking stage many years ago.

Many of us are just wondering if it really going to be a reality.

There were several delays caused by weather and also the location of a natural gas line.

I know those of us who travel Highway 603 cannot wait until the four-laning is completed.

Whenever this section of 603 is completed, we will have to contend with the further extension of the four-laning to Highway 43.

I know that it is a puzzle to some of you, too. If you check a state highway map, you will see Highway 43 really runs all the way to Highway 90 at Nicholson Avenue. Highway 603 doesn't start until the Cross-roads at Kiln.

Most of us 'locals' refer to the Highway as being 603 from U.S. 90 to Highway 53 in North Hancock County.

I know one thing for sure, I am looking forward to one big celebration when the current extension of Highway 603 is completed.

There should be a lot of Hancock County motorists ready to celebrate. I hope to be there, too.

Fishermen have you purchased your new fishing licenses?

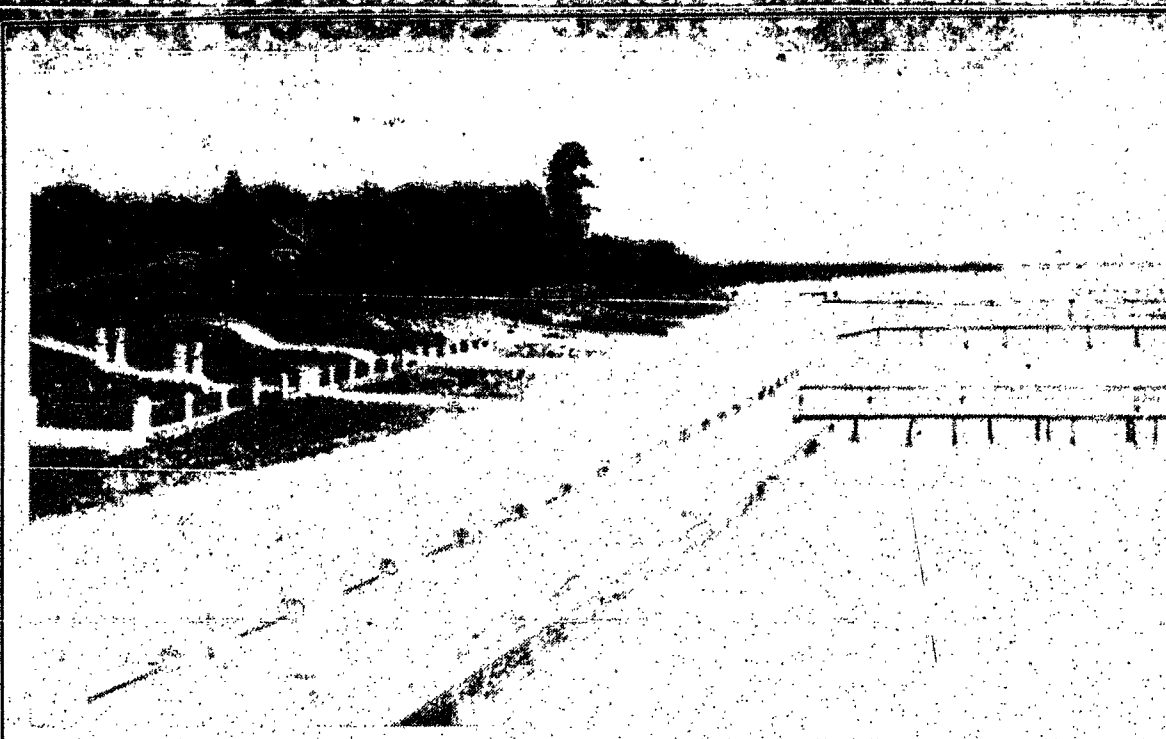

The new licenses were required at the 1st of July, but were not available at the time due to some printing problems.

Anyway, dealers now have the new Mississippi licenses and if you haven't purchase yours as yet, now is the time to do so.

Remember, saltwater licenses are required for fishing in the Bay and coastal waters.

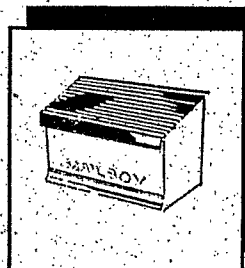

I purchased my fishing licenses, (even though I just do not have time to fish), now you receive only one for fishing, hunting, etc., which is good in a way.

I am sure law enforcement will be check to see if all fishermen have their new licenses.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pastor excited about Shifalo Baptist's 85th anniversary

Dear Editor,

Homecoming, Revival, or Birthday. When I was growing up anyone of these brought record crowds and much excitement to our church, our community and our family.

Dinner on the church grounds with case after case of Coke, Dr. Pepper and Root Beer, iced down by local business houses and favors for the children, provided by many of our local politicians. We always had these vents on different days with record crowds for each event; and to describe the food would be impossible.

Just think, here at Shifalo Baptist in Kiln we are having all three events on the same day. Sunday, Aug. 7, Shifalo Baptist will be 85 years old. I would like to know how many people are in Heaven today because someone from Shifalo won them to the Lord.

Yes, Heaven and Hell are both eternal, and the Bible is very clear on both, regardless of what someone else who lives and tries to worship by man-made rules may say.

We love the Lord here at our church and try to place Him first in our lives. I can attest to the fact that it is not easy to be a pastor today in a Southern Baptist Church.

It is my sincere desire that August 7 through 10 will live as a time you get your life right with God. Don't just say you are a Christian, prove it.

Pray for Bobby Perry, Ronny Robinson and Donna Torres as they become instruments in the hands of God in our church.

Invite someone to come with you for each service and bring a basket of food Sunday and spread it with us in fellowship hall at 12:30 p.m. Singing begins at 2 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

There will be no evening service that Sunday night. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the services will begin at 7 p.m.

Let Jesus come into your heart, church member, and surrender your life to Him. Join us in working for Jesus.

I'll see you during our revival. Your prayers are coveted.

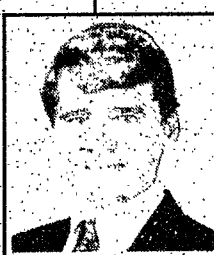

Sincerely,

In Christ,

/s/ Bro. Talley

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Government shouldn't be asked to solve society's ills

This summer there has been a wealth of activities planned in Washington to bring attention to the importance of responsible parenting and the role that it can play in helping to alleviate many of the problems that plague our communities.

But, while most of the attention has been focused on our nation's capital, I can't help but remember a letter I received from a young teenager a few months ago that hit close to home.

The young lady from south Mississippi wrote me one of the most heartfelt letters I have ever received. She didn't ask me to vote for or against a bill. She only spoke her conscience. Her concern? Teenage pregnancy.

I certainly agree with this brilliant young lady that teenage pregnancy is not only one of the most serious problems facing our public schools, but it threatens the very fabric of society. Teen pregnancy creates many additional problems that go far beyond the women and children who are directly involved.

Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist William Raspberry, a native Mississippian, once wrote that "it matters how families come to be single-parent families. Widowhood is different from divorce is different from never-married."

And "Murphy Brown," well educated and well paid, is different from a 15-year-old high school dropout. The point Raspberry attempts to make is that a child born before his parents finish high school, reach age 20 and get married is almost guaranteed a life of poverty.

For this one reason we must, as a society, make every effort to assure that young people are aware of the serious consequences of their behavior. We hear a lot about family values, but until parents instill sound moral principles and responsibility in their children, teenage pregnancy will continue to be a problem. Government is not the answer.

When children are born out of wedlock, the citizens of this country should not have to bear the financial burden created by this problem. When mothers who are on welfare continue to have children out of wedlock, they should not have their welfare benefits increased. It just doesn't work. And hopefully we can change that in this Congress.

It is a sad fact that since 1960, we as a country have experienced five times the number of illegitimate births, nearly three times the number of children in single-parent families, violent crime has grown almost 500 percent and teen suicide has dramatically increased. Some associate society's failings with the growing failure to discourage a behavior that generates a baby out of wedlock. I would like to agree.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

An immigration policy out of control

One million legal immigrants now enter the United States annually. That is tantamount to adding a city the size of Houston to our population every year.

On top of that number, about 300,000 illegal aliens settle here each year. More come and go.

Prior to 1965, an immigration cap allowed a steady but small flow of immigrants — an average of 297,000 a year — at a level that could be assimilated into the American population.

But in 1965, Congress enacted a major overhaul of U.S. immigration law producing almost open borders. Now there is serious reason to question our ability to keep up with infrastructure, education, environment, law-enforcement, and social-service needs if this policy continues increasing the population, projected to be another 130 million by the year 2050.

As a result of immigration, America's population growth is rivaling that of third world countries. By year's end there will be one million immigrants in the U.S. who have made claims for asylum but have never had a hearing on those claims.

One quarter of those persons now incarcerated in the federal prison system are illegal aliens convicted of various crimes.

Based on current projections of temporary and permanent immigration, new labor market entrants are likely to exceed available jobs by more than 8 million in the next 10 years.

We are looking at an immigration policy that is out of control. As a result of burdens on our cities, our welfare system, the environment, the job market and our schools, immigration is costing a lot of money.

Proponents of today's open border policy for the U.S. hark back to a time when America was shaped by the work ethic of proud immigrants seeking freedom for themselves and their families.

What they are recalling is a time at the turn of the century when there was no welfare. America had an open western frontier to fill and a giant industrial base dependent on workers building the railroad and mining coal. It also was a time when America required that new arrivals be self-sufficient.

The pictures to today's immigration policy are those we see on the nightly news: 5,000 persons sprinting across the Mexican border daily, 10,000 Chinese smuggling in each month, boatloads of Haitians coming ashore weekly, the World Trade Center bombing, international immigrant smuggling and crime syndicates, and immigrant-related welfare rip-offs.

Polls indicate that most Americans think the time has come to declare a moratorium on immigration while we assess whether it is costing money or creating other problems.

Few would say we should close America's doors, but today's hardworking taxpayers, the ones who are paying the bills for an out-of-control immigration policy, do not believe America is the land of unlimited opportunity for unlimited numbers of immigrants, both legal and illegal.

But now there is more. Three weeks ago, Attorney General Janet Reno issued a directive that any individual who has been identified as homosexual and persecuted by his or her government for that reason alone may be eligible for relief under America's refugee laws.

It is time for serious immigration reform.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attention: Press Office).

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Cock-a-doodle-do, everyone. A new day has risen. It's time to shake, rattle and fall back in your chair, exhausted!

Hey! Only 6 million days left to Christmas. But I'm not worrying, because that means I still have 5,999,999 and one-half days to start my shopping.

There is no doubt that Ma has already completed her major Christmas shopping. She has become so efficient, that she now shops two and three Christmases in advance.

And you talk about mastering the "Art of Giving." This woman gives more gifts away than Santa himself.

You are on Mom's Christmas list if you are:

- A. A blood relative
- B. A friend or neighbor
- C. A grocery clerk at her favorite food store
- D. A mailman or paper boy
- E. If your last name begins

Area residents want limits on casinos

BY MARY G. SEILEY

An almost-solid block of Bay St. Louis residents urged officials Thursday to keep any more casinos from locating in the city.

One speaker after another took the microphone at Bay High Auditorium with that message, echoing adamant opposition to allowing another casino within the existing city limits.

The comments were aired at a Planning and Zoning Commission special session to gather public opinion on how the Bay Cove/Cedar Point area should be zoned. It was annexed in 1991, just as Casino Magic launched construction at Bay Cove Marina.

The 600-acre area also includes a tract owned by another casino interest, in the Cedar Point area. For three years, uncertainty over whether that once-proposed gaming complex will develop has had residents jittery.

Thursday, residents of the area expressed horror at the thought that a North Beach Boulevard casino would materialize, even though Commission chairman Les Fillingame said such a development would have to overcome "monumental" environmental and regulatory obstacles before that could happen.

The wetlands issue, he said, has plagued Casino Magic's attempts to construct a golf course in the vicinity, and the remaining property has even greater wetlands problems. Fillingame noted that state and federal officials "didn't roll over and play dead" in dealing with the beachfront -- environmental concerns cut the project short.

Fillingame said the Cedar Point casino idea is questionable from an economic feasibility standpoint, and amounts to a "very, very iffy thing at this point."

Still, the audience urged the city to take steps to ensure another casino doesn't materialize. One avenue to blocking it, some said, would be extending the city's zoning into the bay.

"Let's put this thing to rest... Stop all this foolishness and get on with the business of Bay St. Louis being Bay St. Louis," said Gaines Kergosien.

Casino Magic has been a "good corporate citizen" of the city, he said, prompting "good, healthy growth." But "runaway growth is cancerous," he added, saying Bay St. Louis has absorbed "as much impact as a city the size of Bay St. Louis can stand."

Fellow speakers couldn't have agreed more.

The city's infrastructure is over-taxed already, said Franya Etheridge, saying hotel and motel rooms on the drawing boards will only worsen the area's strain on sewer systems, solid waste disposal facilities, the water system, and the local police and fire departments.

Speakers urged the city's comprehensive plan-makers to cordon off Casino Magic's area in a special "right-by-use" zone.

Peggy Dutton, chairman of the Bay St. Louis Community Association, urged the commission to follow the wishes of citizens who have attended zoning meetings and written and petitioned the city on the casino issue.

"We expect the city to decide where casinos may and may not be located based only on the overall best interests of the community, not on any hidden agendas," Dutton said. "We expect the city, for the valid and non-capricious reasons given you over and over again by Bay St. Louis citizens, to create a gaming district only at the present gaming facility... not at the so-called Kinst site, also known as the Cedar Point site."

Dutton said if the comprehensive plan is properly drawn, "we will have the best of both worlds: the character of a centuries-old Gulf Coast small city and summer resort and the economics of a thriving commercial environment, with the two complementing each other."

"Done badly, both the existing commercial and residential areas and all the citizens and property owners therein will face much-increased traffic, parking and personal safety problems, changes in the character of the neighborhoods, and property devaluation."

Dutton said citizens "cannot and will not accept a comprehensive plan that fails to adequately settle the issues that have dominated the agenda in Bay St. Louis for over three and a half years."

The one-casino-only theme had little variance during the meeting. One speaker warned of legal troubles if the city in effect gives Casino Magic a monopoly on gaming business here.

Another speaker said the city should value the rights of individual property owners to develop their land to the best uses, if not in conflict with the public's interest. "Would you want someone to take your property and tell you what you can do with it?" asked Cornelius Ladner.

Thursday's meeting was the fourth in a series of sessions the commission has held to gather public opinion on its comprehensive plan.

Fillingame said information from the sessions is being summarized and forwarded to consultants in Jackson, who are expected to draft the plan.

The next session is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday at Bay High Auditorium, concerning issues of interest to residents of Ward 1.

Teeth to treat overgrowth

ALL CREATURES

My daughter has owned a hamster for about a year. Lately, we have noticed the hamster's front teeth are growing unusually long. Will the teeth eventually wear down, or does this require treatment?"

A hamster's teeth grow constantly. In normal circumstances, the teeth are worn down as they grow when the hamster gnaws on hard foods. If the hamster is not supplied with suitable gnawing material, or if it suffers from a hormonal imbalance, its teeth may grow faster than they are worn down.

In severe cases, the teeth may block the mouth and prevent the hamster from eating. The hamster will starve to death if the problem is not treated.

Sometimes overgrowth occurs when a hamster's teeth are misaligned, such as when the growing area in the gums is injured or infected. Even a horse with an overbite can have a similar problem.

One or more of the teeth may grow out of line and not meet the opposite teeth. This can result in overgrowth. When one tooth is out of line, the others follow.

Because a hamster's teeth grow at a fast rate, check your hamster's teeth regularly for overgrowth. To treat this condition, have your veterinarian demonstrate how to correctly and safely clip overgrown teeth. This is simple and painless when performed correctly.

"Our 3-year-old cocker spaniel has a continuously tearing right eye. I'll wipe her eye, but it still tears and stains along her nose. Could she be suffering from an allergy?"

This condition probably is not the result of an allergy, especially since it is in only one eye. Blockage of the tear ducts will lead to an overflow of tears from the inner corner of the eye. This usually leads to staining on the sides of the dog's nose and is particularly obvious in white-faced dogs.

Sometimes dogs are born with small or absent tear duct openings. Cocker spaniels are prone to this condition. Tear ducts also can become blocked with pus or mucus from eye infections. Your dog even may have an irritated cornea or conjunctiva.

Your veterinarian can determine if the tear ducts are blocked by placing a drop of a special dye on the surface of the eye. If a dog has normal tear ducts, green drops will appear at the nostrils within a few minutes. Failure of this dye to appear on either side shows blockage.

A veterinarian can treat this condition. Because the ducts are small and difficult to locate, a general anesthetic is administered. If the duct openings are not present, little can be done. If the openings are present, a very fine canula is inserted, and the duct is flushed out with sterile saline.

Use of the dye also will allow your veterinarian to determine if the cornea is damaged. A damaged cornea (ulcer) will stain. If the weeping is from an irritation or ulcer, your dog probably will be squinting. Your veterinarian usually will prescribe eye drops or ointment.

If you have questions concerning a pet's health, write Dr. Wynn Jones, MSU/CVM, Box 9825, Mississippi State, MS 39762.

CONSUMER UPDATE

There's more to buying homeowner's insurance than choosing the right company...

By Jan Lukens, MBA, CFP
Consumer Money
Management Specialist

Most of us feel secure as long as our home and possessions are insured with a reputable company and premiums payments are up-to-date. However, we may be shortchanging ourselves if this is all we have done to insure our home.

Getting the most out of a homeowner's policy requires understanding the coverage we have, keeping up-to-date home improvement records and household inventories, and periodic insurance reviews with our insurance agent or representative.

A lot of people miss out on coverage by failing to file liability claims. The liability portion of your policy protects against damages done to other people and their property. Your homeowner's policy covers your neighbor's antique vase when your child breaks it. It protects you when your dog bites someone on the street.

Don't assume the state-mandated minimums on liability coverage are adequate. Many people need additional coverage. For most insurance, the more assets you have, the less insurance you need. The opposite is true with liability insurance.

Liability coverage protects your assets against those who charge you with wrongdoing. The greater the assets, the more you have to protect. If you have considerable assets, consider an umbrella policy.

This gives additional coverage above what is provided in your homeowners and auto insurance. Before you purchase this policy, you must have the required amount of protection on underlying policies.

Plants and trees are covered under a homeowner's policy. Though much of my time and money is spent on my lawn and garden, I seldom think of the protection they have under my homeowners policy. But understanding coverage and saving receipts is important for the exterior as well as the interior and structure of your home.

The standard policy covers plants and trees around the house for 5 percent of the insurance on the house up to $500 per item. Wind damage is not covered but fire, lightning, explosion, vandalism, riot and falling aircraft are.

A fallen tree and its removal is covered only when it damages the insured structure. Insurance will pay for repairs and tree removal when the tree falls on your house, garage, or even your neighbor's house.

Policy riders on family keepsakes may not be the best use of insurance dollars. Though these items can be insured through a homeowners policy, they often cannot be replaced, even if insured.

A rider is needed for the expensive computer used for working out of your home. Buy extra insurance for personal property that you need but could not afford to replace.

Losses are not limited to those at home. Homeowners insurance provides off-premises coverage. If your belongings are stolen while traveling, you are covered. Personal property covered includes credit cards. Most policies cover up to $500 of unauthorized use of your credit cards. If you have a boat, check with your insurance carrier. Many policies cover small boats but not larger ones.

Loss of use is another important coverage. If you are displaced from your home due to damages, extra costs will include motel, restaurants, and other daily living expenses.

In addition, your mortgage payment must still be made. Homeowners insurance will cover reasonable additional living expenses plus any income lost if you rent a part of your house to a tenant.

You probably won't get back what you deserve if you have not taken inventory of your personal possessions and you suffer a loss.

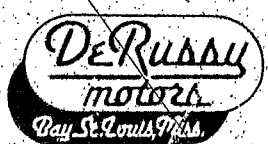

Inventory booklets are available from your insurance agent, your local Cooperative Extension office, and most bookstores. Photographs and videotapes stored in a safe-deposit box can be invaluable in recouping losses.

Ralph Harrell's purchase turned into a lovely addition

Exquisite details make a bed a work of art

'The Two Dollar Bed'

The centerpiece of the bedroom

Local artist Gail Tomson recently completed the renovation of a most unique item, an antique iron bed known as the "Two Dollar Bed." The bed was rescued by Ralph Harrell in 1958 from a scrap iron plant just two minutes before it was to be destroyed. He purchased the bed for a mere $2 for use in a Christmas scene that featured a motorized sleeping Santa. The sleeping Santa scene won first place that year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrell kept the bed for future use in other Christmas scenes. Eventually, the bed arrived in the Harrell's summer home in Waveland.

Tomson took on the project with enthusiasm.

"We wanted to do something really different that would make the bed the centerpiece of the bedroom," she said.

The bed was painted deep pink/mauve with white filigree connectors. The flat headboard and footboard metal panels were painted white and decorated with pink hibiscus blossoms, buds and trailing vines visited by hummingbirds in flight.

Mrs. Harrell said, My hand-painted bed is now the conversation piece of the entire house and has become a family treasure." The Harrells now reside in their Waveland home.

Gail Tomson has other talents in addition to her floral and landscape oil paintings. She also is in business with her husband Bob Tomson as "Natural Metals" where the couple creates sculpture fountains and botanical pieces of art in copper and brass.

Sculptures and fountains done by Bob and Gail Tomson decorate business and hotel lobbies, shopping malls and the Jackson Zoo. Their works can be found in many private collections internationally, including Canada, China, Korea, Norway, England, Japan, Germany and Australia.

Locally, their sculptures can be viewed at arts and crafts shows, several local shops and at their studio located behind their home in Bay St. Louis.

Both Bob and Gail Tomson are members of the Craftsman's Guild of Mississippi, Inc. where Bob currently serves as vice president. He will step into place as president next year.

The tenth Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club Kids Fishing Rodeo is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The rodeo is open to boys and girls ages 13 and under, according to Shorty Karl, rodeo chairman and club vice-president.

The rodeo headquarters will be at the American Legion Memorial Pier, Beach Boulevard and Washington Street, Bay St. Louis.

Registration is free, and forms will be available at the rodeo headquarters until 2 p.m.

rodeo day, or at Sam Perniciaro's Garage, Old Spanish Trail.

In the freshwater division, prizes will be awarded for the largest green trout (bass) and perch.

Prizes will be awarded in the saltwater division for the largest speckled trout, redfish, white trout, flounder, croaker, ground mullet and largest fish.

"The rodeo's officials will not be responsible for undersized fish," Sam Perniciaro, club president warned.

"No undersized fish will be accepted, and parents are urged to have their children comply with state and federal regulations (on speckled trout and redfish), Perniciaro added. Karl emphasized no catfish or sturgeons will be accepted. "This is for the safety of the children participating," Karl added.

There will be a special crab division for ages six and under. All fish must be caught by the participants on the day of the rodeo in any waters in the area from piers, shore line, boats or wading.

Sportsman's Club members will handle the scales, and the weighmaster's decisions are final.

Each participant will also receive a free hot dog and coke, Perniciaro said.

Trophies will be given for first, second and third place in each category, drawings will be held for a large number of prizes.

Scales will close at 5 p.m. Many of the prizes for the rodeo have been donated to the Sportsman's Club by local merchants.

Collectors show set

Friday through Sunday, Aug. 5-7, the Holiday Inn Beachfront (Coliseum) at 2400 Beach Boulevard (US-90) in Biloxi will again be the site of the popular Quality Collectors Show.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free, and ample free parking is available.

Dealers from all over the South will offer a wide variety of stamps, covers, philatelic supplies, coins, currency, gold and silver bullion, numismatic supplies, sports cards, sports memorabilia, coins and other collectibles.

Collectors of all levels of expertise, as well as interested non-collectors, are invited to buy, sell, trade or just browse among the thousands of items on display. Many dealers offer free oral appraisals of collectibles.

Senate approves refuge hunting

The Senate has approved language which restrains the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service from eliminating traditional uses of National Wildlife Refuges, Senator Thad Cochran announced.

The bill calls for additional funding for refuges to help address operation and maintenance needs, so activities like hunting and fishing will not be restricted for budget reasons.

The language in the accompanying report to the Interior Appropriations bill requires the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to notify the public and receive approval from congressional oversight committees before eliminating any activities on refuges.

"I hope this puts to rest the concerns of hunters and others who have been alarmed by the plans to cut back on hunting in the federal refuge system," Cochran said.

The bill also includes $500,000 for erosion control planning to protect Fort Massachusetts at the Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Other language encourages the National Park Service to complete its study for protecting the Civil War gunboat, the USS Cairo at Vicksburg National Military Park.

The Interior Appropriations bill now goes to a conference committee to work out the differences in House and Senate bills.

Ed D. Jones offering municipal awards

Entry forms are now available for The Great American Main Street Awards program. The recently announced program is cosponsored by Edward D. Jones & Co. and the National Trust for Historic Preservation's National Main Street Center in an effort to recognize the best downtown revitalization achievements in the nation.

Candidates for the program's five $5,000 awards are municipalities of all sizes that are actively working to renew their downtown business district. Winning entries will be selected on the basis of several criteria, including:

- * Active involvement by public and private sectors in the revitalization process;

- * Broad-based community support for the revitalization effort;

- * Overall success in boosting the downtown economy; and

- * Adaptive use and preservation of key historic downtown buildings.

Without teamwork and strong community support for downtown revitalization efforts, many small towns could become ghost towns in the near future, according to Richard Moe, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

"Healthy downtowns are one of the most important ingredients for a successful community development strategy. The competition in the Great American Main Street Awards program will highlight some of the most innovative of those strategies which address an increasingly critical issue for American cities and towns today," he says.

It is an issue that hits close to home for Jones, whose investment representatives (IRs) are located in more than 3,000 offices in downtowns and neighborhood commercial districts across the country.

As the largest brokerage firm in the nation in terms of number of offices, Jones maintains a corporate philosophy that embraces community involvement. In keeping with its grassroots presence, Jones encourages its IRs to be involved in those cities and towns in which they live and work.

"We strive to give something back to the communities that we call home," says Craig W. Foster, the Bay St. Louis representative for the firm, "something of lasting value that recognizes the outstanding contributions people can make to their communities when they work together."

In addition to its collaboration on the Great American Main Street Awards program, Jones has worked with the Main Street Center in restoring economic vitality to many communities through the use of the firm's private, high-tech satellite network. In the past year, Jones has broadcast downtown revitalization training seminars to community leaders throughout the country.

The Main Street Center is a program of the non-profit National Trust for Historic Preservation. Working directly with almost 900 towns and cities, the Main Street Center helps to launch and expand downtown revitalization programs that, to date, have generated an average of more than $22 in new, downtown investment for every dollar the communities use to support their efforts. With this return on investment, the Main Street program is one of the most successful economic development strategies in the country.

To obtain an entry form or additional information on the Great American Main Street Award program, contact Craig W. Foster at (601) 467-9400, or call 1-800-441-2018, or write the national Main Street Center, National Trust for Historic Preservation, 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Applications must be received no later than Nov. 15, 1994, to be eligible for program awards. The awards will be announced May 15, 1995 at the 1995 National Town Meeting on Main Street, to be held in Little Rock, Ark.

Coming Along

Workmen ran for cover as fierce thunderstorms pelted the construction on the new Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet in Waveland Wednesday morning. But, inside efforts continued and the building is taking shape for its opening. No doubt everyone who loves the Colonel's cooking is waiting impatiently. Echo staff photo-by Charlee Marshall.

Mississippi's jobless rates soar

Multiple seasonal influences sent Mississippi's jobless rate spiraling upward in June, climbing a full percentage point over the revised May rate to stand at 8.1 percent.

Students flooding the summer labor force helped swell the ranks of both unemployed and employed persons. Employment rose by over 16,000 over May despite a seasonal dropoff of about 6,000 in farm-related jobs.

Unsuccessful student job-seekers helped fuel an increase of nearly 15,000 in the jobless totals. Layoffs of support personnel at educational institutions also contributed to the gains in unemployment.

However, the surge in joblessness over the month was actually less than anticipated with many years posting much larger increases.

In fact, when adjusted for seasonality the June rate actually declined by eight-tenths of a point. When compared to last year, the June jobless rate was up slightly. All this points to a leveling off of the state's economy, with mostly seasonal fluctuations anticipated for the remainder of 1994.

Conditions varied widely across the Magnolia State, with areas having a high concentration of agricultural employment faring worse than most others.

Rural areas also tended to have higher rates than urban counties, mainly due to having less job opportunities for students. Only two counties logged jobless rates below five percent, while seven counties reported unemployment in excess of 15 percent.

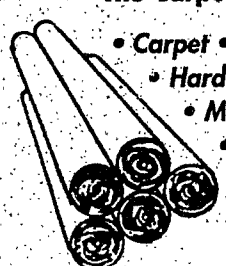

Rankin and Lafayette counties led all others with twin rates of 4.3 percent.

Plan ahead to lessen school clothing cost

By Bethany L. Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications

Clothing for back-to-school can put a strain on a family's budget, but with a little planning, parents can save money on clothes that children will be comfortable wearing.

Dr. Evelyn Johnson, extension clothing specialist at Mississippi State University, said cost per wearing, care requirements, comfort and durability are important when shopping for back-to-school.

"Plan ahead for shopping by determining what clothing your child already has and what you could buy to mix and match," Johnson said.

"Buy basic, easy-care garments in classic styles and steer clear of fads."

Planning your purchases is like having 20 percent more spending power, because if you make a list and stick to it, you are less likely to overspend, Johnson added.

Semi-annual sales can provide money-saving opportunities for purchasing school clothing, but parents shouldn't buy clothing their children don't really need just because it's on sale.

During August, there usually are many costly promotions advertising back-to-school sales, usually featuring fall clothing. But some sales do not have true bargain prices.

"Summer clearance sales usually provide better bargains, and many of the items can be worn year-round," Johnson said. "Some fall clothes are too hot and heavy for Mississippi's climate. Children often can wear summer clothes in October, so keep comfort in mind."

If you buy summer clearance items with growth features, children often can wear them again next spring.

Clothing that will "grow with" a child might include shirts with raglan or roomy sleeves, oversized tops, knitted garments with elastic waists, garments with deep hems (which can be lowered) or clothing with no defined waistline.

When buying brand-name or expensive items, figure out the cost per wearing by dividing the cost of the garment by the number of times you expect the child to wear it. For frequently-worn items such as jeans, the cost per wearing can be very low.

"As children develop from pre-schoolers to teens, their attitudes about clothing can change dramatically," Johnson said.

"Children's attitudes change from accepting their parents' choices to wanting to make all their own clothing decisions."

From pre-school through the first few grades, children usually like the items their parents choose for them. Young children prefer clothing with bright patterns and colors, pockets and independence features, such as easily-buttoned shirts and elastic waists.

During the pre-teen years, some children's attitudes change from accepting a parent's choices to wanting to decide on clothing by themselves. Parents need to make sure clothing can grow with children as they begin to develop.

"Teenagers are in a class by themselves, as more money is spent on teen clothing than any other group," Johnson said.

"Teens, especially girls, are very fashion conscious and often demand expensive, fad-dish clothing."

To help ensure that children from pre-school to teens will want to wear their new school clothes, allow them to participate in the planning and shopping. Parents may want to select several items to purchase and let children pick their favorites.

"When buying garments that will be worn frequently, buy the best quality you can afford," Johnson said. "The most expensive items are not always the best quality items, so examine each garment before you buy."

Johnson suggested checking for these features for quality:

- Stitching should be straight, secure, small enough to hold seams in stress areas and free of loose threads.

- Horizontal and vertical grain construction in the fabric's wave should be straight, or the garment will not hang right.

- Buttons, buttonholes and zippers should be functional and securely stitched to the garment.

- Elastic waistbands should be completely enclosed inside fabric for comfort and durability.

- Patterns should match at seams.

Instill a love of school, learning in your child

Instilling a love for learning in a child is a task that can't be left to teachers and school administrators alone. The desire for knowledge must be nurtured and supported outside the classroom, and that means in the home.

That's the message from University of Mississippi elementary education professor Jean Shaw, who offers these tips to parents to help children acquire and maintain a positive attitude about school and its importance:

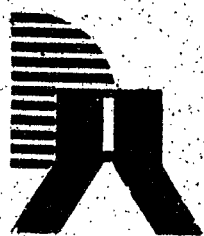

- Provide a study area in the home. While it doesn't have to be a fancy, elaborate setting, the area should be clearly designated as a place to read and study. Encyclopedias, dictionaries and other books should not only be available but also utilized regularly.

- Make studying and reading a priority in the child's daily schedule. Help him or her learn to prioritize and budget time for homework to be done, and reading, writing and drawing for pleasure. This might mean regulating the amount of time spent watching TV.

- Spend quality time with children. Read together and hold family discussions about certain interesting subject; solve practical, everyday math problems together; build awareness and appreciation of science concepts that occur in every day.

- Reinforce a positive attitude about school and learning. Don't tell children horror stories about math or any subject. Parents should overcome their own fears and steer the child in a positive attitude toward fundamental and necessary skills, whether it be math, science or any other subject.

Our Lady Academy

Our Lady Academy, an all-girls Catholic high school for grades 7-12, will begin its 24th year on August 15 with a record enrollment.

As of July 27, according to Sister Donella Hartman, principal, the 1994-95 enrollment has increased to 275 students with waiting lists for grades eight and nine.

OLA's enrollment has largely increased over the last three years. The construction of a new six-room classroom building, which opened for the 1993-94 school year, helped to accommodate the increase.

The beginning enrollment for 1993-94 was 261; for 1992-93, 211; for, 1991-92, 182. Only two other years did the enrollment go over 200—in 1979 and 1986.

OFFICE REOPENS

OLA's school office will reopen from summer vacation on Aug. 1. Sister Donella, principal; Sister Elisa Bauman, assistant principal; Sally Harrison, counselor; and Grace Santa Cruz, school secretary, will all be available.

FINAL

REGISTRATION DAY

OLA will hold its final registration day Monday, Aug. 8 in the new Mercy Hall. Students will register according to the family's last name at these times:

A-G, 9-10 a.m.

H-O, 10-11 a.m.

P-Z, 11-noon

On final registration day, parents are expected to pay the general fee, lab fees, retreat fee and at least one month's tuition, according to the information sent home this summer. New locks for lockers may also be bought.

Schedules of classes will be distributed, and new students may tour the buildings to locate the classrooms where they will have classes.

OLA UNIFORM

OLA adopted a new uniform last year. It consists of a pleated skirt with small plaids of maroon, gray and white; an oxford blouse with the OLA emblem on the collar; optional walking shorts made of the same plaid material; white socks; and any type of brown shoe. For cooler weather, the students may purchase the new burgundy cardigan or pullover 100% cotton sweaters.

All new students must purchase the entire new uniform. Students in grades 9-12, who have had the old uniform, continue to have the option of wearing the old uniform until they graduate, or of adding the walking shorts to the old uniform.

Young Fashions from New Orleans will set up shop on campus on registration day, Aug. 8. New skirts, blouses, walking shorts and socks may be purchased at this time.

TEACHER IN-SERVICE

Teachers will have staff development and in-service on Aug. 10-12. Four topics to be explored this year are self-discipline, critical thinking, testing and technology. The teachers are to report according to the information received in the mail.

The first day of school will be Aug. 15. Classes begin at 8:02 a.m. and finish at 3:20 p.m. During the first week of school, teachers will distribute text books, classroom expectations and a list of supplies needed for each subject.

Make dorm life easier

As thousands of students prepare to leave home for college for the first time, parents can help ensure all the necessities for dorm life are packed and ready. Bonnie Reid, associate director for residence life at The University of Mississippi, offers this list to make the chore easier:

NECESSITIES

- Lamps. Overhead lights need to be supplemented with lamps for late-night studying.
- Lines, pillows and towels. A student will also need shower shoes, a container to carry toiletries, a laundry basket or bag, and a good supply of detergent.

- Telephone. This may vary from college to college. Ole Miss requires the touch-tone version.
- Small first-aid kit. Accidents to happen.

- An alarm clock. No dorm room is equipped with a "mom" who gently shakes, cajoles or drags a student out of bed.
- Clothes for current season only. With limited closet space, students will find that it's better not bring their entire wardrobes.

DESIRABLES

- TV, VCR, stereo, small microwave and refrigerator. Coordinate these with roommates because most dorm rooms won't accommodate two of each. Some students are opting for a new compact appliance called "micro-fridge."
- Carpet. A 9- by 12-foot area rug makes dorm rooms cozy. This, too, should be coordinated with roommates. Don't buy a vacuum cleaner, since students can check them out.
- Milk crates. These are arranged to resemble bookcases and are available in decorator colors at stores.

Turn kids on to reading!

Reading can, and should, be fun for all ages, says University of Mississippi elementary education instructor Cara Moulds.

To make reading time more than an opportunity to drill a child on reading skills, she suggests parents read "The New Read-a-loud Handbook" by Jim Trelease or "More than the ABCs: The Early Stages of Reading and Writing" by Judith A. Schickedanz.

She also offers these tips to help parents find the right books for their children:

Children ages 1-3

Large, simple and clear pictures with vivid detail are the keys to books for very young children. They also like books about people, animals and real-life objects.

Books made of stiff cardboard are easier for young hands with undeveloped motor skills to manipulate.

Suggested books: "Cats to Count," "Mother Goose Rhymes," "Goodnight Moon" and "Very Hungry Caterpillar."

Children ages 3-5

Look for books that match text to pictures. Beginning readers use pictures to guess at new words, so it's helpful if they can look at the pictures and know what the text says. Also, look for books with repetitive lines.

People, animals and real-life situations usually will interest 3-, 4- and 5-year-olds. Be sure to include books about other cultures, not just books about counting and ABCs.

Suggested books: "The Napping House," "My Five Senses," "Three Billy Goats Gruff," "Corduroy," and "Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good Day."

Children ages 6-8

Let children choose their own books. Learn what your child's interests are, so you can help your youngster find books he or she will like. Don't forget to read to your child.

"When a child learns to talk, you don't stop talking to him," Moulds said. "The same should be true of reading. There are benefits to reading aloud to children of all ages."

One is that you may help enlarge the youngster's vocabulary beyond words he or she already knows. Suggested books: "Thomas' Snow Suit," "Stone Soup," "Where the Wild Things Are," "Charlotte's Web," and "The Velveteen Rabbit."

Coast Episcopal schools open Aug. 15

HISTORY

Coast Episcopal Schools was founded in 1950 by the Rev. Charles Johnson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis.

The school, originally named Christ Episcopal Day School, started with a kindergarten class of 17, meeting in the parish hall of the church.

In September 1950 the kindergarten and the first grade were temporarily housed in the Masonic Temple Building on Main Street. In July 1951 the church purchased a seven and one-half acre estate on the Gulf of Mexico, and the carriage house was renovated to house the school.

Growing at the rate of one grade per year, a complete grammar school of eight grades was realized in 1958. The brick building now housing the elementary school was erected in 1956.

A ninth grade was added in 1967 to form a junior high school. In 1968 property on the beach in Pass Christian was purchased to house not only the new junior high but also a full senior high school, with September 1969 as the target date for opening.

Hurricane Camille's devastating blow to the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast in August 1969 totally destroyed the facilities in Pass Christian and severely damaged the elementary facilities in Bay St. Louis.

With the completion of repairs and the addition of relocatable classroom buildings, Coast Episcopal Schools reopened its doors to students in grades K-12 at the end of September 1969.

In August 1973 a new facility in Pass Christian opened for students in the junior high and senior high grades on a 35-acre tract of land that was once a pecan orchard.

The Early Education Development Center was created in 1975 for children ages four and five. Classes were taught in the old carriage house which is now Johnson Hall.

In 1978 a three-year-olds class was added to the program and the kindergarten class was moved to the brick building.

The Coast Episcopal Elementary School campus in Bay St.

Louis presently houses the developmental preschool, the kindergarten class and grades 1-5. The Pass Christian campus on Espy Ave. houses Coast Episcopal Middle School (grades 6-8) and High School (grades 9-12).

Coast Episcopal Schools was founded to provide the young people of the Mississippi Gulf Coast with a sound academic education while instilling in them the principles of Christian belief and practice.

Administrators for the 1994-95 school year are Yvonne Williams, preschool director; Marcelle Patterson, elementary principal; and Rodney Fisher, PhD, headmaster.

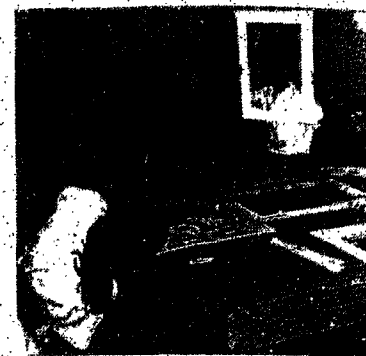

PURPOSE

Students attending Coast Episcopal represent a cross-section of interests and abilities, as well as a variety of backgrounds. Yet, all of the students share a common bond — an enthusiasm for learning.

At Coast Episcopal we direct this love of learning so that each student may develop to his full potential intellectually, creatively, emotionally, socially, physically and spiritually.

We seek to teach our students to think logically and creatively, to read perceptively, to write coherently, to speak with force and clarity, to listen effectively, and to learn by questioning, observing and investigating.

We encourage and foster interest in the arts and the development of aesthetic values. We strive to impart a continuing interest in learning, a spirit of respect for others, a sense of community responsibility and a deeper understanding of ourselves in God's world.

PRESCHOOL AND KINDERGARTEN PROGRAMS

The preschool and kindergarten programs at Coast Episcopal offer young children a nurturing and supporting Christian environment for the transition between home and school.

Understanding children and knowing their interests and needs is our highest priority. We know that each child is unique, and we create a stimulating atmosphere where children are encouraged to discover the joy of learning but are not subject to undue pressure.

Play is a natural process for growth and development. Play activities are utilized to assist the child in learning about himself, his friends, his feelings, and his world, facilitating growth of the mind and body.

When the child is ready, he reads, writes, masters number concepts, and begins to reason and solve problems. Learning the rules, routines and responsibilities appropriate for each age helps each child to develop the security needed to take risks, to feel good about himself, and to have positive learning experiences.

The preschool and kindergarten programs at Coast Episcopal School have been created to support and nurture the natural growth and development of young children.

We offer an environment that helps children understand and build on the world they know. The "child" is our curriculum.

Carefully chosen materials and resources allow them to observe, manipulate, investigate, discover and interpret their world through varied and open-ended activities. Play is the young child's work, and it is through play that important foundational lessons are internalized.

are taught using a variety of materials and resources.

In self-contained classrooms, children enjoy rich and diverse learning skills. It is also during these years that children begin to develop a sense of pride and responsibility.

Loving support with firm limits help children to organize and complete tasks; accept responsibility for their actions and take pride in their accomplishments.

These fundamental lessons continue in the upper elementary grades as students examine their world, identify and solve problems and think about their future.

Concepts continue to be introduced with concrete materials and enriched through field trips, projects and experiments.

The curriculum in grades one through five is viewed as a continuum of learning experiences rather than a narrow set of skills to be mastered.

The language arts, math, science and social studies, as well as the fine arts and physical education, are integrated and adapted to the learning styles and developmental needs of the students.

The Christian atmosphere is warm and family-like, always encouraging the children to be curious and eager as they observe, inquire and evaluate.

Small classes provide the opportunity for a rich variety of learning experiences that are exciting and challenging.

Parents can reduce report card anxiety

By Bethany L. Waldrop
 MSU Ag Communications

Report card day can be a stressful experience for youths, from first grade through college years, regardless of the grades they make. But with a little understanding and patience, parents can help make the experience a positive one.

Manola Erby, extension youth specialist at Alcorn State University, said young people often feel stress from the fear of disappointing their parents.

"Depending on the parents' expectations, the child may feel like a failure," Erby said. "It's important to discuss report cards in the first few weeks of school to help reduce anxiety before the child brings one home."

A family meeting at the beginning of each school year is ideal for discussing study and homework habits, expectations and anxieties.

"When a report card comes home, it's too late to set goals for that grading period," Erby said. "Get your children started on the right track at the beginning of the school year instead of waiting for a progress report."

Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist at Mississippi State University, said report card day can be an opportunity for communication between parent and child.

"The communication must be handled in the right way, with both parent and child listening to each other — it's not a time for lecturing," Jarratt said. "The time to remind about homework rules is when your child is parked in front of the television set on a school night."

Comparing siblings' grades has a negative impact on self-esteem and relationships for all involved.

"Comparing your children is nonproductive in any situation," Jarratt said. "Children should be respected as individuals, so recognize each child's different talents and don't make comparisons."

Comparisons can cause children with lower grades to feel defeated, so they give up instead of striving to do better, while the children with higher grades may decide to take an academic vacation.

When a child brings home a less-than-perfect grade, parents should try to find the source of the problem. A visit with teachers can give parents a clearer picture of a child's true abilities, behavior and attitude toward schoolwork, Erby said.

Bay Catholic readies for school opening

Bay Catholic Elementary welcomes students back to school Monday, Aug. 15 with a number of new faces on staff for 1994-95.

Enrollment at BCE is up to 269 with the addition of a second kindergarten and first grade to accommodate Our Lady of the Gulf and St. Rose de Lima parishioners, according to Myrna Jordan, principal.

Openings remain in kindergarten and first grade, said Jordan, but all other classes have been filled for the 1994-95 school year.

Among new faces on the faculty are Anne Marie Kurpick teaching the second kindergarten class, and Laurel Wilson teaching the additional first grade class.

Betty Holleman has assumed the duties of music teacher, and Penny Shauvin joins the staff as third grade aide.

Bay Catholic's new cafeteria manager is Cathy Eagan.

All teachers will report Aug. 8 for a week of staff development. Including is an orientation by the Catholic Diocese which will encompass a family-style day celebrating the "Year of the Family," said Jordan. Theme of Catholic education nationwide is "Lighting New Fires."

Orientation for parents of preschoolers and new students is slated for August 11 at 6:30 p.m. Orientation for other grades will be the second week of school:

Grades 1 and 2 at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 23; grades 3 and 4 at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 24; and grades 5 and 6 at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 25.

This will provide parents an early opportunity to meet their children's teachers and learn their expectations for the school year, said Jordan.

The opening liturgy is planned for Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 8:15 a.m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Church, and all are invited to attend.

Among important continuing programs at BCE is "Voices of Hope," which Jordan said teaches children conflict resolution and cooperative learning.

New looks for the school include major renovation to the building, such as painting and resealing of all windows.

Female students will be sporting a new look as well, with the addition of girls' walking shorts to the school uniform.

Jordan also listed newly elected 1994-95 PTO officers: Renee Boxx, president; Sue Donnelly, vice-president; Lindell Asper, treasurer; and Penny Elkins, secretary.

Members of the Bay Catholic School Board are Bill Stechmann, Mike Benvenuti, Shannon Ladner, Kathleen Monti, Renee Boxx, Yolanda Lewis, J. D. Rutherford, the Rev. Peter Mockler and the Rev. Francis Theriault.

As the summer draws to a close, Jordan noted the completion of a very successful first year of Bay Catholic Summer Camp. The camp was directed by Tim and Laura Burns, who teach at St. Stanislaus and Bay Catholic, respectively.

Jordan said the camp, for children in preschool through grade six, is planned again for next summer.

children an important lesson in safety.

1. Make sure your child knows NEVER to accept a ride from someone he or she does not know well.

2. Show your child how to use the telephone to summon help.

3. Teach your child to recite his or her full name, street address and telephone number. For pre-schoolers, fastening this information inside a jacket is a good idea.

4. Tell your child where you can be reached in case of emergency.

5. Remind your child to always look both ways before crossing the street.

6. Instruct your child to inform you when he or she goes somewhere after school.

7. Review your child's home/school route together, choosing the most populated path. Avoid isolated and heavily wooded areas, when possible.

When to seek counseling for kids

Behavior that drives parents and teachers up the wall may be perfectly normal for a child's age, but some actions may signal the need for professional counseling.

Dr. Dudley E. Sykes, professor emeritus of counseling and educational psychology at The University of Mississippi, offers these tips to help determine when to be concerned and when to just grin and bear it.

• Sign one. Destructive or bad behavior between the ages of 2 and 3½ is perfectly normal. But if a child reaches the age of 4 and continues to be very destructive, it can be a sign of trouble requiring early identi-cation and treatment by a qualified school counselor or psychologist.

• Sign two. Baseless aggression is also a warning sign. "If a child hits another just for the heck of it, that is a symptom of a problem," Sykes said. When aggression is a response to something, it's not the same cause for concern as when a child simply behaves aggressively for no apparent reason.

• Sign three. Research reveals a link between children with behavior problems and those with short attention spans.

• Sign four. Parents and teachers should be concerned about an extremely egocentric child who never wants to share or allow other children to be first in any activity. If those around a child sense his isolation and indifference, it is usually a sign that a problem exists.

• Sign five. If the above behaviors occur consistently and there seems to be a pattern, formal psychological testing and observation are needed. School counselor or psychologists should intervene at this point.

• Sign six. Behavior problems cannot be worked out in isolation. Counselors or psychologists must have the active involvement of parents for treatment to be effective.

Dominion Christian starts sixth year

Dominion Christian Academy is beginning its sixth year at 819 Central Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The school serves children from kindergarten through high school.

The kindergarten level is a learning-to-read phonics program that will have a child reading at about a second grade level by the end of the year.

Also, math, English, social studies and science are introduced later in the year.

The phonics program has a 100 percent success rate in teaching students to read, barring excessive absences.

Students coming into first and second grade are also tested for reading skills and may need to be placed in the program before being admitted to the elementary level.

The elementary-high school program is individualized and college preparatory. Students are tested in each subject and placed at achievement level in each subject.

Where a student places in a lower level (typically math and English) special effort is made to strengthen gap areas and bring the student up to grade level on a tutoring one-to-one basis.

The high school level offers all subjects required by Mississippi colleges and junior colleges, as well as colleges in Louisiana and Alabama.

For example, students do not receive credit for general math or general science at the high school level, because these are not accepted as credit courses by the colleges. 21 credits are required for graduation.

Class work is supplemented with computer, and computer literacy is a requirement at the high school level.

Field trips are taken approximately every other month. Uniforms are required.

Tuition for the 1994-95 school year is $1,550, which may be paid in monthly installments. School supply lists are at Kmart and Wal-Mart. Classes start Sept. 6.

All kindergarten students not previously registered should be enrolled as soon as possible at the appropriate school. Before a child will be able to register the following requirements must be met:

The child must be 5 years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1994; must have a certified copy of birth certificate; must have Mississippi Certificate of Compliance from local health department or doctor; must have two proofs of residency with current street address (utility bills, driver's license, property deed, rent receipt, voter registration card, etc.) If a child has a Social Security number, please provide that information.

All new students will be required to pay the full price for lunch until their application has been processed.

If a student received free or reduced lunch last year, they will be allowed to eat lunch at the same free or reduced price until their application has been processed.

Lunches are $1.25 regular price; $1.40 for reduced lunches; $1.75 for adult lunches.

Regular attendance is essential to learning. Parents are encouraged to make every effort to keep their child in school. Parents are urged to reserve sick/personal days for serious medical or family emergencies and to schedule appointments for their child after school hours or during holiday periods.

SICK/PERSONAL DAYS
Each student will be allowed five sick/personal days of absence per semester. A note from the parent will be required for days missed.

DOCUMENTED ABSENCES

Documented absences do not count against the allowed sick/personal days. A documented absence is an absence accompanied by a written statement from a licensed physician prohibiting the student from attending school or an absence due to death in the immediate family. In the case of death, parents must call the principal's office by the end of the school day following the absence. No exception will be allowed.

UNDOCUMENTED ABSENCES

Undocumented absences are absences beyond the allowed sick/personal days which are not verified by a doctor's or death notice.

Five undocumented absences during the school year will result in referral to Youth Court. After 15 undocumented absences, the student will be dropped from the roll. Students will not be allowed to make up course work missed during an undocumented absence.

EXTENDED ABSENCES

Students who are absent from school 15 consecutive days will be dropped from the school rolls unless the absences are due to illness supported by a written doctor's statement.

The following guidelines must be followed concerning the district dress code:

* Pants and jeans are allowed but must be neat. Walking shorts are allowed. No mini skirts or shorts permitted more than four inches above the knee. Students in grades K-4 are allowed to wear Bermuda-

* Any hair style must be neat and well groomed.

* Personal grooming is to be done in restrooms or outside of buildings.

Buses: Concerned parents should attempt to meet busses at approximately the same time as last year. It is suggested that parents be at the pick-up points 10 to 15 minutes early. New students should check with neighbors to get approximate times and pick-up points.

Anyone having questions or who would like to apply for a full- or part-time bus driver position should contact the Transportation Department at 255-7141.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT

Each school year brings with it new challenges and fresh opportunities for each of us to grow as persons. We will focus on school improvement. It is an exciting time for education in Hancock County.

The challenge will be to meet the needs of our children and this requires a commitment, an involvement from our district, parents, business and industry.

We are proud of our efforts that have accomplished a great deal, but we are aware of the progress yet to come.

Our School's reputation and success rests, in a large measure, on parental concern and involvement. We need your cooperation and understanding to promote a challenge for the love of learning by our children.

We have been designated as a 21st Century and an Onward to Excellence School District. Onward to Excellence (OTE) is training and technical assistance service designed to teach schools how to use effective schooling research and a good base management process to improve performance in their schools.

OTE includes ten steps in a research-based improvement process. The process takes place at a local school level and is focused on improving student performances in three areas: academic achievement, attitude and social behavior.

Learning is an individual process that is shaped in the classroom. On a daily basis, teachers and students work together to extend and refine each learner's set of concepts and skills.

Thoroughly planned lessons, focused instruction, regular assessment and positive classroom management increase the probability of success.

Our school can take pride in its highly qualified and dedicated faculty. These educators welcome your concern, and they view education as partnership between home, school and community.

These are important years, and it is reassuring to work with young people who see a challenge in their potential to become the best they can.

If there is anything we can do to help your child, please do not hesitate to call. The unvoiced problem cannot be resolved.

Our goal remains to provide the best possible education for each student. Be part of our team — participate.

WARNING!

WARNING!

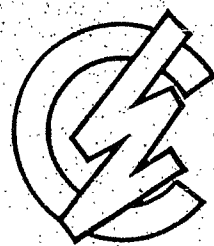

BE ON THE LOOK OUT...

School's back in session and in the excitement of the new school year, many school-age children, especially the young ones, may forget to look both ways when crossing the street or exiting the school bus.

That leaves it up to you as a driver, to be extra careful around schoolyards, neighborhood play areas, and departing school buses.

So remember...when you see yellow, be sure to see red—as in red alert. Let's all slow down and give our children the chance they deserve.

ally, socially and physically.

Young people benefit from after-school involvement

By Anna Minor
MSU Ag Communications

Little league games, dance recitals and band practices turn many parents into chauffeurs, but their children can gain more from these extra activities than just something to keep them busy.

"Students who are involved in extracurricular activities tend to do better in school and the other areas of their lives," said Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Young people involved in extracurricular activities tend to have a more positive self-concept than those who are not involved. This positive self-concept carries over into all areas of their lives.

"Young people with a positive self-concept tend to be more involved in clubs and activities because they try new experiences more freely and believe they will be successful," Jarratt said.

"They also are better able to fit in with groups because they are more open to liking other people since they like themselves."

The benefits of extracurricular participation are numerous. Involved students develop strong social and communication skills because they deal with different people in different settings. They also learn to work in groups and to cooperate with other people.

Tips to improve test scores

Your youngster failed another test, and you're wondering what you can do about it? To help take the sting out of test taking, discuss these tips with your child. They come from the University of Mississippi emeritus psychology professor Roscoe Boyer, who administered tests for more than 40 years.

- Sleep and eat sensibly. Prepare for a morning test, for example, by eating a balanced dinner, getting a good night's sleep and eating a proper breakfast.

- Be prepared. Never take a test without studying and practicing first. Have on hand plenty of paper and proper pencils.

- Determine how a test will be graded. On some tests, deductions are made for wrong answers. If they're not, it's better to respond than not answer at all.

- Watch the time. Know the time allotted for the test and budget what you can spend on each question. Remember, questions usually become more difficult as the test progresses.

- Make predictions. On mathematical problems, make a prediction before formulating the answer. Check your answer with that prediction.

- Don't let unfamiliar words throw you. The meaning of unfamiliar words is sometimes revealed by sentence context, but to really improve test scores over the long run, learn Latin and Greek word stems and Anglo-Saxon prefixes and suffixes.

- Improve reading comprehension. Elaborate on what you read by answering who, what, where and why questions as you go along, or imagine what is taking place by drawing a mental picture.

- If your mind is off task, stop! Take a look at what you're doing. Ask yourself what you're trying to accomplish and try to think of new ideas or a better approach.

Prepare children for first day of school

By Bethany L. Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications

Whether a child is starting daylong kindergarten or first grade, the first day of school can be challenging for both children and parents.

Dr. Louise Davis, extension child and family development consultant at Mississippi State University, said parents can have a definite impact on a child's attitude about a new school.

"The first day is stressful for families, and depending on the parents' attitude, it may be stressful for the child," Davis said. "It marks the beginning of a period of transition in a child's life."

Usually children are excited about the first day, and parents should reflect a positive attitude about the experience.

"The more the parents and child can learn about the new teachers, classes and surroundings before the start of school, the more comfortable they will be on the first day," Davis said.

One important way to prepare is to meet and discuss the new teacher with your child.

"In some areas, new teachers visit children in their homes before the beginning of school," Davis said. "If that is not an option, try to arrange a meeting with the teacher, or call the school for details to share with your child."

Visiting and sending brief notes lets teachers know that parents care about their child's education. A meeting with teachers should be a top priority if a child has special needs.

To further familiarize a child with the new school, call and arrange a tour. Make it a pleasant visit, starting at the bus stop and then going to the school grounds. Walk through the child's day by going to the classroom or assembly area, then to the bathroom, cafeteria and library.

"Since some parents don't have time during the work week to take this tour, an adult friend or relative could take the child inside the school, leaving the school grounds to be explored by parent and child on the weekend or after work," Davis said.

Start planning early for after-school child care, and be sure to discuss these plans with the child before school starts.

"Some school systems in the state provide before- and after-school care for children," Davis said. "Check with your county home economist for information on child care services in your area."

Parents also should check the child's medical record and be sure all shots are up to date. If the child will need a trip to the health department or doctor's office, make the appointment early, since doctor's offices often are crowded just before school starts.

Several weeks before the first day of school, parents should establish an afternoon and evening routine for the child.

"For the beginner, the routine may be a blend of quiet time with books and educational toys, later to become homework time; active playtime; household chores; limited TV time and a consistent bedtime," Davis said.

"Let your child get used to the routine that school will require — don't let it be another new thing to deal with."

Give your child a card or note to take on the first day of school with the names and phone numbers of the child, parents, a friend or relative and the child's bus number and teacher's name.

"During the first few weeks of school, parents should try to be better-than-usual listeners," Davis said. "Encourage the child to open up by using 'feeling' responses instead of asking too many questions."

If the child has a lot of questions about starting school, make sure your answers reflect reality. The more realistic parents are about what school is like, the less surprised the child will be.

Some realistic expectations for children include getting ready to read, hearing new stories and working with other children to learn new things.

Davis suggested that parents look for children's books about the first day of school to help answer some of the child's questions about starting school.

If the child doesn't like school immediately, don't get discouraged — just keep encouraging the child, Davis said.
